#	OTHER (PLEASE SPECIFY)	DATE
1	In many trades, there is already curriculum in place that includes quesiton banks etc. I believe the needs for new teachers is helping them learn how to BEST use what is available to them. Help them to understand the different types of assessment and how to effeciently use it in a timely manner. Most new teachers spend too much time giving out work, tests, and not enough time building relationships with their students.	9/19/2019 11:05 AM

10	How about providing CareerTech instructors with actual, relevant professional development in their specific fields of industry, such as additional knowledge, certification studies, and technologies, instead of trying to add K-12 elements to our programs? Give us opportunities to build upon our expertise in our industries so that we can provide an increasingly stronger apprenticeship model. We were founded on the apprenticeship model of vocations and have thrived for our communities and industries by doing that; not trying to be an extension to K-12 and college teachers.	9/17/2019 11:15 AM
