

My name is Hannah Mason and I want to be a Oklahoma HOSA officer because I want to be a part of something bigger than myself and be a part of the change in this pandemic and what comes next. I want to make a more positive impact on others around me and make them become more involved and make them a part of something bigger than themselves as well. Becoming an officer of HOSA is a high honor to me and with that is a high quality of standards that have to be met. Working in teams is one of these qualities and also one of the best qualities i have learned in life because I wouldn't be able to hold a steady CNA job without learning how to corporate and come you with a solution that would benefit everyone around I have no fear with public speaking or in private or in front of people i've never met before because everyone messes up and nobody is perfect. It is good to encourage to speak up for themselves and bring new ideas to the table because without those ideas we can't grow as individuals and grow as a team, Such as the Founders that founded the United States because they brought themselves together and made up our country and with these hard times with Covid-19 we need to come together to learn and listen and bui;d on each other. Being given this position I would be a part of something bigger than myself and grow as a Healthcare Professional.
