SPOTLIGHT SESSIONS

THURSDAY, AUG. 1 • COX CONVENTION CENTER

Dr. Cathi Neal, Changing Course Foundation

Conflict and You

Participants will be introduced to the Drama Triangle and Compassionate Accountability created by consulting firm; Next Element. Understanding these two concepts will enable participants to enhance their ability to spot a drama situation and will provide them with tools to lead them out of drama.

Ballroom A/B, second floor | 10:15 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

Corinne Hoisington, Central Virginia Community College

Virtual Reality in CTE – Immersive Career Paths

The real world isn't flat, so why constrain our classrooms to experience the digital world on a flat screen? The shift from 2D to 3D is as natural as adding color to movies and television was in the 1950s. What started out as something that was simply cool has become a way to engage learners like never before. Get ready for a totally immersive experience with the HTC Vive virtual reality system, which will allow you to teach human anatomy, dissect farm animals, learn automotive and welding techniques, practice CPR training with real-time feedback in a variety of scenarios and teach childhood education underwater using equipment that can be covered by your Carl Perkins grant.

Ballroom C, second floor | 10:15 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

Ron Duggins, Amplify Coaching LLC

The Question is the Answer: The Coaching Skill of Asking Better Questions

Coaching skills lead to better outcomes in our relationships, organizations, and businesses as we work with our colleagues and customers. One of the most important skills is asking better questions. Better questions lead to better answers and better relationships. In this session you will learn about and practice asking better questions.

Ballroom D/E, second floor | 10:15 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

Adaptive Culture: Infusing Innovation into Organization and Curriculum

Adaptive cultures emphasize experimentation and improvement. More and more success is becoming about how quickly organizations can respond. To keep up with client demands, technology and other unexpected changes, organizations must infuse innovation into their programs, processes and mindsets. This session will address types of innovation and give examples of exercises to get teams or classes into an agile and adaptive frame of mind. The Autry approach to blended and online learning will be presented as a case study.

Meeting Rooms 19-20, second floor | 10:15 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

Rebecca Bazzle, Microburst

Changing Student Soft Skills Behaviors + Happy Employer = SUCCESS!

Join us for an interactive session and case study-based implementation discussion. Experience a soft skills challenge that you can use in your classroom to engage your students by connecting your classroom to the world of work. Discover how your peers are implementing Microburst Learning's EmployABILITY Soft Skills to prepare students for what employers expect and demand in the workplace. Instructors will share how improving soft skills fulfills employers' needs; affects behavioral changes; and brings about fewer altercations, increased participation from quiet students and less aggression. You will also explore the data demonstrating measurable results and walk away with soft skills implementation tips and techniques and a classroom hands-on activity to grow your students' soft skills.

Meeting Rooms 16-18, second floor | 10:15 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.
